
HOW RD PAYNE TO HAVE BANNER YEAR IS 1924 OUTLOOK

Dean of Music of Brownwood College and Party Stop Here Tuesday and Wednesday Canvassing for More Students for Coming Year

Camero Marshall, dean of Music of Brownwood College, Brownwood, Okla., arrived in Vernon Tuesday afternoon en route to north Texas points and did some work in this city, leaving students for the Brownwood school for the coming year.

Several of the high school students who were prominent in athletic events were interviewed and much interest aroused concerning the school for the coming year. Aside from this particular type of students, several interested in music and the finer arts were found to be prospective students of the Baptist College.

Mr. Marshall reports that the summer school has the largest enrollment in the history of the institution and that the work of building up the college is progressing rapidly with an exceptionally large enrollment expected this fall.

The fine arts department of the school is said to be one of the best in the state with a rating equal to that of much larger schools. In the last five years this particular branch of study has outgrown the facilities set aside for it and a new auditorium and fine arts building had to be built. Since the completion of the building, which was the work of Dr. L. J. Mims, recently pastor of the local Baptist church, the department has grown rapidly with the result that today, one is safe in saying that it is second to none in schools of its size.

The records made by the athletic department speaks for the success of this branch of the school. The football squad, which is to be under the able generalship of "Tubby" Amis, formerly of Georgia Tech, this year with its past record, of being the first team to defeat the league squad on their own field is expected to set some new records. Mr. Albright, better known as "Dago" was assistant football coach at Texas University last year, is to be on the coaching staff at the school.

Mr. Marshall is one of the best known bass soloists in Texas.

and has led the fine arts department so successfully in the past five years that he has been engaged for another year. A short time ago, assisted by Lynnan Stanley, head of the piano department of the school, Mr. Marshall gave a concert in the New Junior College auditorium at Wichita Falls and won the hearts of all music lovers who heard him. He has as one of his students for the summer course this year Miss Ruth Lyon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Lyon, and reports that the young lady is doing some fine work in the voice department.

After transacting the necessary business here and visiting with friends the party left for Chillicothe, Quannah, and other points north of here to Amarillo where they will turn south to Canyon and return to Brownwood.

"Fools' Highway" Is On At Pictorium Monday and Tuesday

Monday and Tuesday, beautiful Mary Philbin in "Fools' Highway" along this path worn smooth by many feet is unfolded the gripping action, the love and pathos of Mary Philbin's second great picture.

For girls under twenty only, the advice is given, "Think well before yielding to glittering pleasures and temporary joys of 'Fools' Highway.'" For young men, the sage advice is contributed by those who have taken the pathway, "Pause then before your feet tread Fools' Highway in careless quest of momentary pleasures. Who can beat the game?"

Today and tomorrow is the last showing of that wonderful play of ice bound Alaska, "The Killing of Dan McGrew". Robert Service's poem set to the click of the camera. A picture never forgotten.

"THE COVERED WAGON" AT VERNON THEATRE

"The Covered Wagon" will be at The Vernon Theatre for four days beginning Monday next. If it were possible to take behind the scenes the twenty million motion picture fans so that they might gain a slight conception of the tremendous task involved in making an epic picture such as "The Covered Wagon," it would disprove the unjustified claim that motion picture producers are satisfied with makeshifts and are careless of detail.

When Famous Players-Lasky Corporation determined upon the huge task of translating to the screen Emerson Hough's novel, "The Covered Wagon" as a Paramount picture, it was with a full knowledge of what was entailed. It meant weeks of preparation, painstaking research, gigantic expenditure and a responsibility almost unequalled in the history of the films.

James Cruze, producer of "The Old Homestead," was given the task of making the photodrama. A staff of fifty or more experts was assigned to him, and immediately the preliminary work of research and location finding was entered upon. Nine states—California, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Oregon, New Mexico and Arizona—were combed for locations and data, material and "properties."

Then Mr. Cruze, himself, went to Nevada and Utah, which had been settled upon largely as the most promising spots wherein to film the scenes for the play. With Otto Meek, owner of the Baker Ranch, of probably 200,000 acres, largest in Nevada if not in the world—located in the Snake Valley—arrangements were made whereby it might be used as the principal location. It contains a great lake which it was decided, could be banded and an outlet formed to create a river which should provide the torrential stream which would later be forced by the wagon trains, every animal being obliged to swim as in the actual experiences of 1848.

Oxen had to be obtained to pull them and so 150 yoke of steers were secured and broken to the yoke; the yokes and chains had to be made. In addition 200 mules were required, of the army type—no small task in itself. A herd of 500 buffalo was utilized for the big hunt scenes.

A thousand horses, 100 companies of win equipment, several herds of ordinary cattle flanking the wagon trains were needed.

One thousand Indians, five hundred being mounted warriors, the rest made up of squaws, paposes, old men and so on, was another order.

Five hundred drivers for the ox teams—types of bearded, bronzed plainsmen; families of wives, children, etc., dogs, guides, wagon train captains, all were among the necessities.

Covers had to be made for several hundred wagons.

The country was untouched by modern equipages, there were no telephone or telegraph wires, no trains, no autos. In fact, much of the territory used never has been trodden by man; all of it is wild and primitive—in none of it has a camera ever clicked.

LIFE INSURANCE SERVICE

We represent the Pacific Mutual because its famous life policy for every one that "pays 5 ways" and its Non-Cancellable Income Contract for business and professional men are so far in advance of other kinds where it is necessary to "die to win". Then Pacific Mutual is the Biggest and Oldest Old Line Life Insurance Company West of the Mississippi River.

We represent the Great Southern Life, of Houston and Dallas, one of the largest and most popular of the Texas Companies, because we are able through this Company to reach and accommodate a certain class of customers we might not otherwise be able to serve. This applies particularly to older men and women up to 70 years of age.

We have recently arranged to represent Missouri State Life, another of the largest Western Companies, because this company while issuing all Standard forms of policies also takes some Sub-standard at fair rates, issues regular ordinary Life, 10, 15, and 20 Pay and Endowment policies to boys 10 years of age and up at regular rates and policy put in full force at once.

A Real Educational Endowment Contract

Also issues Educational Endowment policies on parents in favor of their children that are all that could be desired. See us about this and let's guarantee a college education for your boy or girl.

Free service to policy holders in any old line Company. We give information, write letters for you and assist you in every way possible to keep your insurance in force no matter what company you are in.

We organized the Vernon Mutual Life and Accident Association less than two years ago and we are operating this so as to do the greatest possible good in our community for the people of all classes who appreciate this kind of an organization.

We are here to give this community the greatest possible Life Insurance service. Try to find some way we may help you.

Remember we have nothing to sell but Life Insurance—with Sickness, Accident, Old Age, and Disability Benefits.

W. Hume Designs as Manager Federal District

W. Hume, Federal District Manager of Savings, in charge of development and sale of government securities in the South Federal Reserve District for the past five years, has tendered his resignation to the Treasury Department to take effect July 1. Following announcement made by the Federal Reserve Bank, Mr. Hume will become one of the district officers of the Investment Companies of Texas, headquartered at Dallas.

At the Federal Reserve Bank, it pointed out, the Eleventh District under Mr. Hume's direction, contributed the New York, Philadelphia and Boston reserve districts, all of the southern district and held fourth rank in the United States in the per capita amount of Treasury savings securities alone, totaling between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000.

Mr. Hume was formerly with the record in 1917 as an assistant.

WHAT'S INSIDE? ASKS AVERAGE EGG BUYER

Every buyer of summer eggs is to know: What's Inside, says H. Oates, agricultural agent for Fort Worth & Denver. This is the question of the country produce buyer, wholesale buyer, the grocer and consumer. The question arises in the buyer's mind because he is, from experience, suspicious. Summer eggs have not been dependable, therefore every buyer is doubtful about their quality.

Everybody wants bad eggs on the market, much less does he want to buy them. This doubtful feeling has caused a reduced consumption of eggs in summer and a reduced price. Of course no one will give as much for a doubtful product as he will for a dependable product. And these doubts about what's inside the egg causes the farmer or dealer to get a poor price which discourages the development of larger farm poultry keeping.

This discouragement is what the farmer is trying to correct. Much progress has been made this year in convincing producers, buyers and consumers to realize the profitability of infertile eggs. The infertile egg is good inside. There is no blood in it. There is no thick in it. It is not even the germ of a chick present. It therefore does not incubate.

All eggs that are infertile are good, but if they are fertile no one knows what's inside until the egg is broken. Furthermore, even though a fertile egg is good today, it is not likely to be good tomorrow, every day we have fertile eggs and the question arises—What's inside?

Many are removing this query by buying strictly infertile eggs. There are 80 buyers are handling them. Consumers are asking for them to such an extent that the demand for them is greater than the supply. Prices are advancing. We appeal to the farmer to take advantage of this first general opportunity to get a good price for summer eggs. The price and the demand have been provided for you, fine on the eggs.

STATE UNIVERSITY RENTS RESIDENCES AT AUSTIN

An annual income of approximately $66,000 is now being received by the University of Texas from rental of residences. The property is kept in excellent repair by the University, and the net income goes to the credit of the building fund of the institution. These residences are situated on the property that was recently purchased for the enlargement of the University campus to make possible the carrying out of the building program planned for the future expansion of the institution. There are 160 residences on the newly acquired property, and all are rented, bringing an income to the University of approximately $5,500 per month. Many of the residences are occupied by their former owners. In addition to that income, the University receives approximately $500 per month from the rental of the cottages on the Presckendge tract to campers. There are now ninety tenants on that land.

CHILDRESS SHOWS THE WAY.

The town of Childress recently voted bonds for improving the fair grounds as city park. The amount of the issue was $35,000 and will be used in erecting the buildings necessary for the operation of the annual fair. So far as The Record knows Childress is the first town in this section to improve her fair plant through municipal bonds or other sources of revenue derived from taxation.

There are a few instances in Texas where the fair grounds have been taken over as county parks. It seems to The Record that the county park plan is the ideal method of handling the fair problem. It is well known that county fairs do not earn sufficient revenue to make them paying investments, and since this is true there is no satisfactory method of providing for improvements and proper maintenance.

The county fair plant here is owned by a private corporation, the stock being distributed among a comparatively small number of people who bought shares at the time the enterprise was being organized. The local fair owns some very valuable land, but like most other county fairs it does not earn a profit and therefore cannot make the improvements as they are needed or even keep the improvements already on the grounds in a proper state of repair.

The only way to make the necessary improvements in the absence of having the property taken over as a city or county park, would be to make annual appeals to the liberality of the people. This is both unsatisfactory and unproductive. The best plan is to have a certain income for the upkeep of the property. The most equitable way to accomplish this is to make a county park of it. The tax necessary to keep it up would be distributed generally and would be so slight that none would feel the burden. A county fair is a public institution and therefore ought to be supported by the public.

The working out of the plan adopted in Childress will be watched with interest by local people who are anxious to work out an equitable and feasible plan of keeping a splendid community enterprise going.

IS TEXAS A MONARCHY?

One would imagine from reading reports of speeches made by some of the candidates for Governor that our form of government in Texas is monarchical, and differs from the monarchies of Europe only in that our rulers in Texas are selected every two years and get their commission direct from the people.

This seems somewhat exaggerated, but ridiculous as it may seem, such a notion would do no violence to logic. One candidate says he knows of a certain man in a certain Texas county who is making and selling booze and as soon as the candidate is elected Governor he is going to send the Rangers down to that town, arrest this man and carry him to the penitentiary. He also threatens to do the same for the district judge, district attorney and other officers in that particular town.

Another candidate says he is going to put all bootleggers in the penitentiary, regardless of local officers and juries. Another will say that he will do certain things with different branches of the state government.

If one took these statements literally, and their continued repetition must lead us to the belief that the authors of them wish them to be considered literally and in all seriousness, he must inevitably conclude that these men imagine that all a Governor of Texas needs to do is to wave a scepter, command the arrest of those who come under his displeasure and all is done, just as it was in Europe 500 years ago.

But it so happens that the Governor is subject to the law. If one doubts this he might refresh his memory on the experience of Jim Ferguson and Jack Walton. It so happens that a Governor can't send anybody to the penitentiary. It so happens that he can't remove officers or disperse with juries or the Legislature.

Of course, no one takes these statements from our would-be Governors very seriously, and that is one of the tragic aspects of politics in Texas. We have become so accustomed to silly talk from our politicians that we pay no attention to what they say or what is meant by their utterances, and when an occasional man announces for office who talks intelligently and deals with actualities we are in no mood to listen.

CATTLEMEN TO RESENT THE DROP IN PRICES

"More than 300 cars ordered for cattle shipping in zone three in Texas, were canceled last week, for the reason that cattle prices have generally fallen within three weeks from thirty to 50 per cent of what they are today in the principal markets of the United States." It was said Monday by D. A. Gaumnitz, manager of the Producers Commission Association.

Gaumnitz predicted that something soon would be done by the cattlemen in an effort to stabilize the cattle market. He believes they will reduce the amount of stock shipped, reduce production to a point where the supply will no more than meet the domestic demand and pointed to the fact that hundreds of farmers each week are seeking the new co-operative plan of marketing which has been used so successfully by the producers of other agricultural commodities.

"In an effort to lower prices to the consumer a concentrated effort has been made to cut the price paid for the raw material to the farmer," said Gaumnitz. "The packer has stood out against this reduction, until the coolers have become so full that the cut was unavoidable. Now, the farmer is standing the blunt end of the deal, because he can not pass along the reduction as merchandisers do," it was said.

Pepsinated Calomel Is Better than the Old-Time Sickening Kind

It is gentle, imported English Calomel, combined with Pepsin and other helpful ingredients. It is mild but certain, causing no harshness or unpleasantness and will absolutely relieve indigestion, biliousness, bad colds, constipation and sick headaches. And best of all it does it at once—quickly and pleasantly. Take one small tablet at bed-time and you will get up hungry and feeling fine.

INTERESTING ISSUE OF TEXAS REVIEW ON PRESS

The July issue of the Texas Review, literary quarterly published by members of the University of Texas faculty, will contain the paper by Judge R. L. Ratts on "Cervantes, Don Quixote, and Sancho," which was delivered at the recent Commencement exercises of the University. There will also be reviews of two Texas novels by Clara E. McClure. The novels are "The Golden Coccoon" by Ruth Cross, of Paris, Texas, who was awarded the $500 prize offered by D. A. Frank, of Dallas, for the best novel submitted by an ex-student; and "In the Land of Cotton" by Dorothy Scarborough, of Waco, now a member of the faculty of Columbia University. There will also be articles by Dr. Aaron Schaffer and Dr. C. C. Glascock, of the romance language department.

Mary Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Smith, is very ill.

"Indigestion Affects the Heart," Says Dr.

Gas, from spoiled, fermented food in the stomach, presses against the diaphragm, putting great strain on the heart and lungs. Older persons are often unable to stand this strain and sudden death results. Most of these sudden deaths are caused by acute indigestion and could be prevented.

A physician discovered a preparation known as FERRASAL which neutralizes the excess acid in the stomach, keeps the food sweet and fresh and prevents gas from forming. It also keeps the alimentary tract clean and deodorizes, the kidneys regular, and is absolutely harmless. It proved successful with hundreds of his patients, and now FERRASAL can be purchased at your druggist's.

Take FERRASAL night and morning for a month. Your stomach will be free from gas, your tongue clear and your breath sweet, or your money refunded.

"COULD HARDLY BREATHE."
 "I had enlarged heart and high blood pressure and was unable to do my work for five months. Gas, forming on my stomach, pressed against my heart and lungs so I could hardly breathe. The first box of FERRASAL stopped gas relief from forming and gave me great relief. I continue to take it and am back at my work and in fine health."

Station-to-Station Calls Costs Less

When you ask Long Distance to get a certain telephone number in a distant city and, when connected, you speak to any one at that number, you have made what is described as a Station-to-Station call.

That is, on a Station-to-Station call do not specify a particular person to be reached, but give only the number of the telephone or the name or address under which that telephone is listed.

A Station-to-Station call costs less than a call for a particular person because less operating labor and less circuit time are required than if a particular person has to be located and brought to the telephone.

Charges cannot be reversed on Station-to-Station Calls.

COLLEGE GIRLS TO STUDY CLOTHES

FEMININE HUMANITY TO ASSIST FUTURE HUSBANDS SELECT WEARING APPAREL

(By Eric G. Schroeder)

"Watson, my wife, I'm off to buy a tie."

The process of selecting the favored bit of neckwear, heretofore considered entirely within the few sanctified activities left to mere man, promises to become a co-operative affair in the near future when present students at the Texas State College for Women here begin marrying and point out to their lords and masters the errors of their tastes. There will be fewer blood-red ties, checkered vests, and yes, brown, derbies in the Southwest, at least, when the future wives-to-be get under full steam, for they are being given instruction in their costume designing classes—not only how to fashion dainty step-ins and tasty afternoon frocks—but how to dress their future husbands. Horrors!

Colors reflect their opposites on the spectrum, is the somewhat technical information, unintelligible to the layman, given to the girls by their instructors. In other words, if hubby is anemic and sallow-complexioned, never, under any circumstances, permit him to invest in a bright red tie, so dear to the heart of the average male householder. For red, reflecting its opposite, green, will give him a somewhat expression that isn't calculated to make the insurance solicitor particularly hopeful of having him pass a good physical examination.

"Work out harmonies in complexion," is the advice given to the future costume "selectors." In other words, colors in wearing apparel should be selected with an eye as to whether the purchaser is fair or dark skin. Grays and blues, say the instructors, are especially suitable for blondes, while the brunet should surfeit his tastes with varieties of brown.

If friend Husband has dark hair he can be taken with the utmost abandon to formal affair calling for the proper evening attire, for black looks have a way of forming a peculiarly pleasing combination with the familiar "son and fish." The blonde-haired lesser half, however, labors at a decided disadvantage at the formal ball for the ethics of the art profession decrees that he would form a more pleasing portion of the available scenery were he attired in sport clothes or business suit.

After all, is the moral drawn to the youthful devotees of Dame Fashion, the ultimate purpose of all dress is to call attention to the face. Perhaps the idea is not consistent with the impression gained from a swift survey of the physiognomy of friend Husband, but after all, he's behind it and "the people in front get the jar." A light suit and a hat of darker shade will furnish a contrast that will focus the glances of pedestrians, automobilists and chorus girls upon the broad or narrow expanse that goes by the name of "hubby's face."

Shirts, if they are to be the proper piece de resistance, must not be darker than the suit with which they are worn. White, blue-gray and their variations can be worn acceptably with gray and blue suits, and husband is to be taught a severe lesson if he deigns to appear at the breakfast table wearing other than a white, cream, or tan shirt with his brown "every day" suit.

If their future husbands follow the general architecture of ex-President Taft, the girls are told, never, under any provocation, permit them to wear horizontal stripes or plaids. This is to prevent any future round-the-world aviators from mistaking the globe which they have set out to encircle. If hubby emulates Colonel Gulliver in altitude, cull from his wardrobe all evidence of vertical stripes. The rail husband, it would seem, would make a far better-looking convict than his less fortunate round friend.

The Texas college girls are busily designing a complete set of fashion plates for men. These are to be carefully filed in bureau drawers, for future reference. Eligibles who visit their sweethearts on the campus have already begun to receive ultimatums with some apprehension. Man's final sanctuary, his traditional privilege, has been violated. The barriers are down; femininity, fashion plate in hand, stands triumphant!

TEXAS PUPILS WIN 29 SAFETY PRIZES

J. W. McGinn, a pupil of the Cumberland Hill School, Dallas, has won first prize in the last national safety campaign. It has just been announced by the Highway Education Board. He has received a gold medal and a check for fifteen dollars, while his name is now to be entered in competition for one of three national prizes—a gold watch and a trip to Washington (first), or gold watches (second and third prizes). Second State prize was won by Henry McFadden, Cameron, Texas, who has received a silver medal and a check for ten dollars. This contest is conducted annually among elementary school pupils for best essays on safety on the highways.

Mrs. Mary Popple, a teacher in the Morehead public schools, El Paso, won first honors among many Texas teachers who submitted practical lessons teaching safety habits on highways. She is now to compete for one of three national prizes—a check for $500 and a trip to Washington with expenses paid, or checks for $300 and $200.

In addition to the first and second prizes, eighteen third prizes, bronze medals and checks for five dollars, have been mailed the following Texas pupils for their safety essays: Lucille Soltner, El Paso; Bertie Walker, Graham; Helen Sharp, Dallas; Myrtle Butler, El Paso; Ruth Vernon, Pharr-San Juan School, Pharr; Edith Johnston, Corpus Christi; Lois Brunette, Edna; Robert Estes, Tyler; Leslie Thompson, Dallas; Christine Sharp, Lone Oak; Enla E. Savage, Plainview; Minerva Watson, at Hughes Springs; Maude Warren, Navasota; Grace Conner, Sealy; Marjorie Burford, Texarkana; Winnie Fowler, Mineral Wells; Doris Henrikson, Dallas; Martha E. Piano solo—Mrs. E. A. Vernon.
Reading—Ladelle Bowers.
Vocal solo—Helen Williams.
Reading—Alice Stokes.

After the program an interesting Bible contest was heartily responded to by all the women.

Then another game which afforded much merriment, was enjoyed, in which the ladies proved their mechanical ability by rapidly naming the parts of cars to complete an automobile story, read by Mrs. M. L. Burch.

At this meeting the names of "capsules," chosen a year ago, were divulged, and a very pleasant time ensued when the ladies related the many acts of kindness by "unknown hands," during the year. A new
